

The New York Times
July 4, 2004

The New York Times
SundayStyles

For Sand, Surf or Sidewalk

Made with a light-weight resin that resists moisture and slipping and that virtually molds itself to the foot, Crocs are shoes just right for boat or beach. They have a supportive structure for toes and arch, making them also popular among those who spend long hours on their feet. City dwellers wear them to trek around town, and hikers pack them to wear around campgrounds. The Beach models (left) are $29.99 at David Z in Manhattan (for store locations, 212-274-9044) and at Good Footing Limited in Brooklyn, (718) 789-2500. Other Crocs come in children's as well as unisex sizes. For information, (877) 238-4404 or www.crocs.com. LINDA CONTE

